- If you could not continue to your destination station on the same day due to a delay, cancellation or loss of the connection train, you have the right to return to your departure station or to use an alternative mode of transport to the place where your destination station is situated. This may be an operational substitutive transport service arranged for by ČD (e.g. bus service or another means of transport) or public transport or taxi service, to which an authorized employee of ČD issues an official permission.
- If it is not possible to finish transport with the help of the alternative mode of transport, and if it is feasible in given circumstances, the authorised employee of ČD will provide you, free of charge, an accommodation voucher for a contractual accommodation facility, or you have the right to a reasonable compensation for accommodation expenses and for the informing of waiting people, including the necessary transfer to the accommodation place (the permission is to be issued by the authorized employee of ČD).
- You will receive more detailed information from the conductor of the delayed train, from ČD employees at the railway station where you lost your train connection service, or from operators of the Central Customer Services (tel. no. 221 111 122).
